SFDI Work-Study IMPORTANT Information

1. We must receive a completed application with a $60 deposit before we can consider you for work-study. Your $60 deposit goes towards your registration for the festival. Work-study is limited and does fill-up.
2. Your $60 deposit is non-refundable except if we are not able to offer you work-study and you are therefore unable to attend the festival, in which case we will refund your deposit.
3. Work-study does not cover the entire cost of festival registration; it gives you a $150 credit toward registration. You must pay the balance by the first day of the festival.
If you want the early registration rate, you must pay your balance by April 15.
4. You CAN still take advantage of the early registration discount if you apply and are accepted for work-study AND send in the total early registration fee minus your work-study credit by April 1.
5. You must register for the whole festival to get work-study (people only doing part of the festival are not eligible for work/study).
6. Most work-study occurs DURING the festival, not beforehand.
7. You must be able to attend the work-study meeting the opening day of the festival, Sunday, July 27, from 4-6pm.
8. Please be aware that some work-study people may need to miss a few classes when helping with tech work in the theater or working the registration desk.
9. Each work-study person will be required to attend approximately 3-4 non-Intensive classes that are assigned to them, to be class monitor. You fully participate in the classes, but you are required to attend each class in its entirety, and you may not choose other classes during those class slots. We will do our best to accommodate your class preferences but you might be assigned to monitor a class that is your second choice.
10. Examples of work-study jobs include sweeping studios, cleaning bathrooms, monitoring classes, ushering and ticket-taking, tech assistance, clean-up, set-up, working the registration table, and other wondrous jobs to help create a well-run festival.
11. We will notify you if you have been accepted or not for work-study. Unfortunately, because we have always had more requests than available openings, we are not able to accept all applicants. We do keep a waiting list.
12. If you have questions, email kim@velocitydancecenter.org.
